"Carries Western Kentucky Like the Daily"
H. T. BEALE, W. C. SPEER, J. O. BEYTON,
Editors and Proprietors.

ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR

Entered at the Hickman, Kentucky, postoffice as second class mail matter.

Friday, March 22, 1907.

When the editor of the Hickman Courier assumes the part of a whipped spaniel he should do as an individual, not as representing the community in which he chances to be editing a paper. We claim to have a more intimate knowledge of the political conditions in Fulton county than the editor of the Courier has or ever can have. Any reference made in the Gazette to matters affecting Hickman are not addressed to nor intended to embrace the editor of the Courier.—Clinton Gazette.

* True, the Courier is not the whole of Fulton County, nor Hickman, nor does not represent the whole of either, but, honest old fellow, we do come nearer representing the community in which we reside than you do in the one in which you reside. We do not claim to be the rotten machine politics with which you are identified, and in that we care not to dabble. If you laid any claim to the Democratic party, we would not, perhaps, be so earnest in our request for you to let our politics alone but honest again, old fellow, we don't think you can boast of your rep as a Democrat.

Presbytery in Session.

The Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church has been in session in Hickman since Wednesday. There are quite a number of visitors and delegates, perhaps fifty delegates. We did not get the names of the delegates in time to print them this week. Much interest was manifested in the business meetings. The delegates and visitors have been attending the Revival meetings at the Court House.

Decision For Mr. R. T. Tyler.

A decision was rendered this week by the War Department, in regard to the middle section of the Hickman and Tiptonville levee, which has been in dispute for some time. The decision, was rendered in favor of Mr. R. T. Tyler. Mr. Tyler was awarded the contract to build the lower and middle section of the levee, the contract stipulating that when a thousand feet of continuous levee was completed, the government, through the engineer in charge would take it up and it would be at the risk of the Government, and any portion of the levee under a thousand feet was to be at the risk of the contractor. Mr. Tyler sub-let the contracts for the levee, the lower section to Val Carpenter and the middle section to Capt. Buffington. When the first thousand feet of the middle section was completed and Mr. Tyler had asked Capt. Conner of Memphis to take it up, the request was refused, the Captain stating that under the contract the work could not be received until the lower or upper section was completed. Mr. Tyler, still sure that he was right, appealed the case to the War Department, and made two trips to Washington in the interest of the matter in question.

After several months, a decision has been handed down and which Mr. Tyler received this week, holding that the amount of levee completed by Mr. Tyler or his sub-contractors, would be considered taken up and received by the government and any expense or damage incurred by him in the care of the levee and protection from water, must be borne by the Government.

THE A. S. of E. COLUMN

—BY MR. J. H. SAUNDERS—

DON'T SELL CLOVER HAY.

Many who are buying clover hay, especially cows to feed, should feed every ton of clover grown on the farm. The fertility in clover hay is just coming to be understood as it should be. The fertility from it is said to be almost equal to the hay itself in value. The Northwestern Agriculturist says there is good authority for the statement that a ton of butter when sold from the farm takes about 25 cents worth of fertility from the soil, and at present prices would be worth nearly six hundred dollars to the producer, whereas a ton of clover hay represents about eight dollars worth of fertility, and when sold on the farm would bring only four or five dollars. There was a time in the history of our farming when we were ignorant of these facts and sold clover hay, but it is now fed to the cows, and we sell butter-fat instead of the hay. Every farmer and stockman should study this problem of fertility and feed—otherwise he may waste with a shovel and save with a spoon.—St. Louis Semi-weekly Star.

If these things are true it does seem that our agricultural colleges and experiment stations have been a long time finding it out. But this is what we have argued in this column for many weeks. The farmers pay millions of dollars to support these colleges, but not one farmer in a thousand has time to read the papers and bulletins they send out.

If the farmers will organize and demand fair wages for their products there will be spare time on the farm as elsewhere to read what our professors are doing, and we can have a little time to experiment and see if their theories are true. But as long as we hump our selves every day to plant more acres and raise more bushels we shall continue to impoverish our soil, raise fewer pounds or fewer bushels per acre, and our experiment stations will be of little or no use to the actual farmer.

Almost every paper you pick up has one or more columns devoted to Agriculture, but who reads these columns?

The land lord who owns the farms has moved to town to educate his children and has perhaps secured a clerkship in a farmers' implement house or a family grocery. On dull days he reads the agricultural reports on extensive farming and finds that our soil is capable of producing 25 to 30 bushels of corn per acre. He visits his own farm and finds that his tenant is making 25 to 30 bushels. He shows his tenant the agricultural report who replies that he has no time to read such reports and does not believe them when he does read them.

Let us examine one of these agricultural reports. We find the average production of corn for ten years, 1866-1875 was 26 bushels. From the same report we find that for the ten years, 1895-1904 the average was 25 bushels. So while every state in the union has paid millions of dollars to support the agricultural department all to teach us how to improve our soil and increase our production we find that we have impoverished the soil, our best farmers are leaving the farms in the hands of tenants who naturally cannot feel the interest in rich soil, good roads, good schools and good churches that the owner of the land should feel. Our boys are leaving the farms because they see that a "clod-hopper" is considered a low ignorant fellow.

All other callings and professions are organized to such an extent that it is clearly to be seen that the farmer who ought to be the most independent man in the world is the most helpless.

Recently a friend told me that the A. S. of E. is all right so long as the high toned honorable citizens act together, but irresponsible individuals break forth and burn houses, dynamite factories, roll tobacco in rivers, etc., and that these things are the natural results of which the A. S. of E. is the cause. In this way he would make our society the cause of all anarchy.

During the civil war there were southern guerrillas and northern home guards who were thieves no matter whether they wore the blue or the gray.

Were the honest soldiers who fought for their country responsible for what these outlaws did? Had the northern people any more right to hold the south responsible for guerrilla warfare than the south had to hold the north responsible for union home guards who guarded their homes by plundering and burning the homes of southern sympathizers?

Our government is busy prosecuting oil kings, railroad kings, mine owners and insurance officers. Are these men who rob policy holders, who are usually widows and orphans, day laborers and other honest citizens? These men who murder miners by sending them into dangerous shafts in order to save the few dollars which would make them secure, I say are these men any less anarchists than those who burn houses, or blow up factories? A man is an anarchist who defies the law, no matter whether he be a poor anarchist who risks his life in the issue or a rich anarchist who bribes juries, buys legislatures or intimidates accomplices.

A Few Ingredients.

What are women folks made of? Wiles, smiles and the latest styles, Face and grace and filmy lace, Plumes and blooms and feathers and fumes, Fears and dears and a sprinkling of tears, Fads and scads and a big bunch of pads—

That's what women are made of. What are men folks made of? Of tussle and bustle and plenty of hustle, Of hats and spats and Christmas cravats, Of blow and show and oodles of dough, Of bear and stare, not to speak of hot air, Of stews and booze and other refuse That's what the men folks are made of.

T. T. SWAYNE,

Warship at Hickman.

P. J. Cheever, master-at-arms 2nd class, U. S. Navy advance agent for the Wasp, arrived in town Monday night from Paducah, and billed the town with advertising matter soliciting young men to join the navy.

Cheever tells the Courier that the Wasp was unable to get to Paducah on account of the river rising to such an extent that she could not pass under the bridge at Cairo, Ill.

This boat will arrive at Hickman Friday, March 22, and will remain here two or three days. She is commanded by Chief Boatswain Creghan, Recruiting Officer Clancy and Surgeon Kennie.

The ship will be open to visitors, and arrangements are being made for her to moor alongside a barge so that it will be convenient for visitors to go aboard.

The Wasp has broken all records for enlisting men since she started on her recruiting expedition, January 5th.

Boatswain Clancy has the distinction of receiving a number of medals for bravery during the Boxer troubles in China, and also during the trouble with Spain. Boatswain Mate Johnson has also received medals for bravery during the Spanish-American war. He was with Admiral Dewey at the battle of Manila Bay, and has been in the navy for 22 years.

A word about the Wasp: She is 180 feet long, has a beam of 23 feet, draws 13 feet of water and has a displacement of about 630 tons. She was in the trouble at Santiago, or rather Nipa Bay, Cuba, and has a splendid record behind her.

—Cotton and Adams positively guarantee all their work to give satisfaction.

A peculiarity of the Blue mountains of Pennsylvania is that they are divided by rivers that break through the walls at intervals of twenty-seven miles. From the Susquehanna to the Swatara is twenty-seven miles; also from the Swatara to the Schuylkill, from the Schuylkill to the Lehigh, from the Lehigh to the Delaware, and from the Delaware to the hollow in New Jersey known as Culver's pond the intervals are the same. It would be most difficult to account for such a coincidence.

The name "Cyclone" is given to the following prescription it is supposed, because of its promptness in driving from the blood and system every vestige of catarrhal poison, relieving this foul and dread disease, no matter where located. To prepare the mixture: Get from any good pharmacy one half ounce Fluid extract dandelion, one ounce Compound syrup sarsaparilla. Shake well and use in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime.

This is a harmless, inexpensive mixture, which has a peculiar action upon the eliminative tissues of the kidneys, assisting them to filter and strain from the blood and system all catarrhal poisons, which, if not eradicated, are absorbed by the mucous membrane, and an open sore or catarrh is the result.

Prepare some and try it, as it is the prescription of an eminent catarrh specialist of national reputation.

GREAT UNION REVIVAL

Harris-Stover Meeting Continues to Grow in Interest and Attendance

MANY ARE BROUGHT TO CHRIST

Crowded House Every Night
Good Sermons—Splendid Music—and "The Old Time Religion"

The greatest revival in the history of Western Kentucky is now in progress in Hickman. The Christian people of the town are doing things; Scores of people are yielding to the earnest and persistent efforts of the leader of the meeting, Rev. B. Marvin Harris, and his co-workers to better this community.

As the meeting progresses it grows in interest and attendance. The courthouse is by far too small to accommodate all who come to the evening services.

This is now the third week of this meeting, and from what we know of the persistency of the leader, it will be likely to continue indefinitely—or so long as the Christian people will lend their hearty co-operation in the good work. Co-operation should be the motto of every Christian man and woman in the town at this opportune time to bring about a much needed moral reformation.

Our local pastors, also the visiting ministers, are doing much to help Harris in his fight for the right. Harris is not only a zealous worker but a wonderful man—possessing to a rare degree the art of getting close to and reasoning with men—of bringing them together—and of doing things. His purpose is never lost in the process.

Three or four services are conducted daily, in addition to the cottage prayer meetings in the four quarters of the town. Business houses are closed from 10:00 to 11:00 in the morning for business men's services, and again in the evening at 7:00 o'clock for the night services. Every service adds reinforcements to the religious forces.

Mr. F. R. Stover deserves special mention for his untiring work in directing the big chorus choir. He and his choir are giving us splendid music.

Just when this meeting is likely to close, we do not know, but the Courier is hoping it will continue until every man, woman and child in this town and vicinity are brought into the ranks of Christianity.

A Novel Case.

Probably the most novel question decided by the supreme court in some time was involved in a case Saturday from Davidson county Tennessee where Wellington Moore had been indicted for the libel of his wife. By a bare majority the court reversed the action of the trial judge in quashing the indictment and held that an indictment for libel would lie against the husband who had uttered a libel against his wife. Chief Justice Beard quite vigorously dissented from this holding both on the ground that it was not good public policy and because there was no precedent in the judicial holdings or statutes to be found anywhere. The only case cited to the court or which could be found involving the question sustained the dissenting opinion. Judge McAllister also dissented. The decision of the majority was based on the idea that a husband, being liable under the law for an actual assault upon his wife, he would be liable for a verbal assault.

Graves County in Ire.

There never was such a universal sentiment in Graves county before among the people for good roads as there is at present.

Their patience is threadbare with bad roads, and they don't hesitate to express themselves regarding the matter. They claim they have paid taxes enough to have good roads; much less for them to be in worse condition than they have been for the past twenty-five years. They claim that now, with an increased amount of taxes, that the roads will be but little better with such a fall and winter as has just passed, and that if the fiscal court does not intend to build good, substantial, gravel roads, that they can see nothing but a waste of money. The people are very much out of sorts regarding the dangerous condition of our public highways.—Mayfield Messenger.

Fulton county does not complain of the tax rate but otherwise the conditions are practically the same.

The little child of O. C. Luckett, died Sunday, of summer complaint, and was buried in Brown's Cemetery Sunday afternoon.

Will a merchant who is wise ever come to advertise? Yes—when the goods grow up side down; when the buyer wears a crown; when ice comes in the sun; when the sparrow sings a tune; when gold dollars get lost in a trap; when a woman, secrets away, when a fish forgets to swim; when Satan sings a hymn; when the devil goes back on gum; when the politician schemes; when no politician schemes; when mince pie makes pleasant dreams; when its taste to break a tooth; when all lawyers sell the truth; when cold water makes you drunk; when you love to smell a skunk; when these things all come to pass; then man that's wise will neglect to advertise.
